Parenting can be a struggle for everyone at different times. On top of parenting kids with varying needs, many of us are navigating different roles: we are caring for our own parents, dealing with work stressors, and managing our mental and physical health. No wonder it can be overwhelming! This workshop is intended to build confidence in helping kids with big emotions "in the moment" and support parents to be gentler with themselves and their kids. Join us for this 1.5 hr workshop where we will learn the power of working with emotion.

Learning objectives:

- 1) To understand the negative impact of judging ourselves and our children.
- 2) To build confidence in helping kids with big emotions 'in the moment.'
- 3) To influence motivation and behaviour through recognizing emotions.

This workshop is brought to you by Stouffville Medical Centre, Young Minds Psychology, the Office of Mayor Lovatt, and Whitchurch-Stouffville Public Library.

Students will learn about aspects of animation by creating a small flipbook. Throughout this project, they will learn how animators create their own projects by working with a computer program that lets them animate digital objects, and about character development that assists in creating their own unique characters. The conclusion of the project allows students to bring their characters to life in front of a camera.
